Dear Seymour:

As you requested, here are a few of the articles about Joseph E Furey.

There are others, but the copy machine at the Museum has been very temperamental lately. I'll try to remember to send others at a later date. I had an amusing call this week from a Do-It Yourself Handyman Magazine who want to offer Mr. Furey's environment as a Do-It-Yourself Project? Is it any different from the replication of Baltimore Album quilts? But imagine, reproducing part of an environment-----

I most certainly am very actively involved with the Rosenak book. I am the research coordinator for the project. The 20th Century Archival project is separate from the Rosenak book project, but working on the project has been helpful for the Archive.

Looking forward to hearing from you again.

Sincerely,

Lee Kogan
