Dear Coral Castle:

We were very pleased to learn that the Coral Castle has been placed on the National Register of Historic Places. Congratulations! To our knowledge, your site is the seventh one of its kind to be listed on the National Register, and we plan to mention it in our next newsletter.

In case you haven't heard of SPACES, we are a national organization interested in preserving sites like yours. We have the largest collection of books, articles, pamphlets, post cards and other materials on American folk art environments, and we act as an advocate and champion for the artists who create them.

We are preparing a bibliography, for our newsletter, of books, pamphlets, and articles on environmental art and would like to include any materials you may have. In addition, we would like to write an article on the Coral Castle for a future newsletter.

We would be happy to send you a check to pay for any books, pamphlets, brochures or articles you send us. Please let us know the amount.

Of special interest to us is the book "A Book in Every Home." Is this book still in existence? If so, would it be possible to purchase a copy? Is it available at your site? Can our members order it and other materials from you by mail?

Also of interest is a film Alan Landsburg did for his "In Search Of..." television series. This film profiled your site, and we understand it may be re-shown. We think Landsburg will be interested in learning that the Coral Castle has been placed on the National Register, so we will inform him and encourage him to shown the film again. When we learn what date the film will be re-televised, we will let you know.

Again, our congratulations. We look forward to hearing from you soon and to receiving any materials you may have.

Yours truly,

Seymour Rosen
Director
