Dear Leonard,

You're going to be on BBC this Sunday. They'll show segments from the documentary and their local on-camera person will comment. The show is aimed toward young people which is an ideal audience, I think. They have promised to send a tape copy of what they broadcast and when I get it I'll show it to you. They also say they will broadcast the entire documentary later. The mountain is definitely going international.

The lady from CNN called me Monday and said her crew was on their way out to see you. I hope it went well. She promises to let me know when the interview is broadcast so I can tape a copy.

It was good seeing you and the mountain looking so good. See you soon.
