Dear Seymour:

Thanks for the Cardinal letter and the note about my not checking the oval for a free hard cover copy of your book. I didn't forget to do it - as I thought about it I realized that I have two copies of your book that I lend out to fanatics like myself. And although they are getting worn, I felt justified in not asking for another copy (although I apparently am entitled to it) because of your fervent pleas for monetary assistance. If indeed you need every penny of my modest donation, don't send the book. If the hard cover copy is somehow already paid for, or donated, then by all means send me a copy - which I won't lend out and will be able to have and hold forever. Do I make myself clear?

On the other hand if you have a large number of copies and anticipate having some next July, I will continue my membership at a high enough level to be offered one then. If you don't anticipate having any then, send one now, etc., etc. It's up to you. And of course I will continue to help keep SPACES going as a loyal supporter. Keep up the good work. And keep those cards (post c's) and letters (news l's) coming. Capesh!

My best to all the SPACES staff,

Sincerely,

Stuart C. Schwartz
