Dear Seymour,

Thanks for the flyers. How was Romano's garden destroyed? In 1974 I just learned of it from a Xerox of an article from Architectural Digest (I think?) I would love to see some color prints or pictures. I called the Chamber of Commerce and got a priest's name. I then wrote a very long letter asking him how I could get pictures and save parts of it etc. He never answered. I dropped the matter as I was too far away. Even if a gallery had sold elements of his garden that fate would have been better than total destruction. We'll write when you can.

Best Wishes,

Jeff Camp
