

WHIRL-I-GIGS
VIEWLANDS/HOFFMAN SUBSTATION
N. 107th St. and Fremont Ave. N.
Seattle, Wa.

Emil and Veva Gehrke created the 27 whirl-i-gigs installed at the Seattle City Light substation. A reminder of the potentials of wind power, the whirl-i-gigs are made from found and recycled materials. The yard of the Gehrke home in Grand Coulee, Wa. is filled with over 300 different whirl-i-gigs.

"When you get overworked and tired, just go and sit down and see good old mother nature turning those pretty colors." Emil Gehrke
