Dear Nancy Worden:

I received your letter and enjoyed hearing from you. Your visit last Fall was very pleasant.

I looked through the forms and there doesn't appear to be anything I can't handle in filling them out. But frankly I would like to know more about this organization and the relationship involved if I were to enroll.

At my age (85 yrs) I do not feel it wise to take on new responsibilities, or to enter any new financial agreements. And I most definitely can not afford to put money in it. If I was really smart I guess I would sell it. My family think so anyway. And I am beginning to lean that way. You know 85 years is getting up there.

Sincerely,

Anna Wolfen
