Othea "Babe" Krieger, Prisbrey's last living child, was located in a nursing home in Oregon and interviewed on the telephone. Other audiotape and telephone interviews were conducted with local Simi Valley residents, former city officials, ~~and~~ original members of PBVC, and renowned artist Kent Twitchell, who visited Prisbrey regularly with students from his art classes.

The organization and cataloguing of the material in the files will enable Bottle Village to update its current website timeline to reflect post-1988 activities. Based on new information, errors and omissions in the timeline and bibliography can be corrected. The new timeline for exhibition history will be annotated to reflect those exhibitions for which there was a published catalogue.

This project is part of SPACES' effort to update and consolidate the documentation and research for the more than 700 contemporary folk art environments in the United States that are covered in its archives. The general cataloguing format which has been developed for Bottle Village will prove extremely useful when applied to other sites. The cataloguing effort was carried out by Marcia Page, Project Cataloguing Consultant, Seymour Rosen, Director of SPACES, Preserve Bottle Village Committee members Daniel Paul, Chairman, Helen Dennert, Janice Wilson and Suzette Smith. Ms. Page replaced Louise Jackson, named in the original proposal, when Ms. Jackson withdrew from the project due to health problems.
