Dear Seymour,

a quick answer to your long letter from September 7 - Everything is fine, and almost perfect (except very small corrections listed below) but - there is a BUT...

You can't, my dear Seymour, expect me to approve a Spaces newsletter dedicated to french folk-art environments which, for some reason(?), omits to mention Chomo's Village d'Art Prehistorique in Acheres - laforet: a major site (much more important than Varenne's or Chatelain's for instance) which most probably will be bulldozed immediately after Chomo's death if national and international interest is not focused on it very soon.

In one of my earlier letters I had, sure enough, given you all the information about the site, the address, the names of the buildings, a.s.o. Omitting this place would be as strange, or ridiculous, as omitting Cheval or Picassette -
So I hope it is still time to insist at least a small § on it.

As for the rest, I list my remarks onto the next page -

All the best from your french friend

Laurent

(I have the "Lycées Xerox" and know the man.)
(next time, I drive you to Chomo and Tatin. But it's already late ...) Delightful & honoured to become a member of your Board of Advisors.
