

SPECIAL EVENTS

WEARABLE ART WORKSHOP

Sunday, November 15, 2:00 p.m. Bring your t-shirts, sweat shirts, scarves, jeans, jackets — any article of clothing you'd like to decorate and personalize. We'll have paints, glitter, feathers, beads, etc. You can create one-of-a-kind designs for yourself or for gifts. (If your garment is new, please launder it to remove the sizing.) Supplies fee is just $1 per article plus our usual $1 admission for adults. Children's admission is free.

MULTI-MUSIC

Saturday, November 21, 8:00 p.m. Los Tipos, everybody's favorite Latin-based rhythm and blues dance band presents an evening of unforgettable music for the unbelievable price of only $1. Nobody's Jig some Bricks from Hadrian's Wall, joins them with a capella performance from all over the musical map. It's an evening not to be missed.

KINDERFORUM...NOT JUST FOR KIDS

Friday, November 27, 2:00 p.m. The Orange Show's Kinderforum series allows children to meet and interview accomplished adults who have gained recognition in their various specialty areas. Actor Gary W. Livingood, currently performing at Stages, answers questions about theatre and acting while transforming himself into traditional Japanese costume. His application of Kabuki make-up and presentation of a Japanese theatrical piece entitled The Story Teller is one of his most requested performances.

A CHRISTMAS STORY

Sunday, December 13, 2:00 p.m. Young and old alike are delighted by Dr. Sidney Berger's reading of How Come Christmas. Dr. Berger, Chairman of the Drama Department at UH, performs this southern Santy Claus tale in dialect. In addition, Christmas carols from Africa and America will be performed by children from Kuumba House under the direction of Lindi Yeni. The afternoon promises to be a unique Christmas experience.

GOOD BYE FOR A WHILE

Friday, December 11, 7:30 p.m. Our annual "closing party" marks the end of another successful season. Brave Combo, the nuclear polka band from outer space (they claim Denton) will be making an Orange Show debut. Rotondi, a California polka band described to us by Brave Combo as "weirder than we are" joins them in their only Houston appearance. Admission is $5 for adults, members and children accompanied by adults admitted free. Be there or be square.

EYEOPENERS III - BEAUMONT!

Sunday, February 28 This time we're bound for Beaumont, Port Arthur and points beyond. Plans are being finalized, so call 552-1767 after November 15th for complete details. Reservation deadline is February 10th.

ON THE COVER

It is the garbage they eat that makes the body clack.

Remember that wise advice from Jeff McKissack — Jan Burandt and Carter Ernst did, and used it to convey the spirit of The Show in making the costume for "Landmarks on Parade" that opened the George R. Brown Convention Center. Special thanks to Jan, Carter, Lynn, Paul, David, Olin, Noah, Gus, Mark, Ed, Bryan, and David the Flyboy.

THE ORANGE SHOW

The Orange Show is a kind of visionary fantastical miniature Disneyland, built entirely by one man, Jeff McKissack, who prior to his retirement was a Postal Service employee, built the Show to explain to others his theory about good health and nutrition. Since McKissack's death in 1980, The Show is being preserved and maintained by a non-profit foundation.
