Subject: Mexico revisit

hello all,

Some of you may remember a site I visited in Mexico on an Orange Show tour back in 1999. It's a surreal, Dr. Suess-like garden environment called Las Pozas, located in the central interior state of San Luis Potosi. The site was built in the 1960s and 70's by an Englishman named Edward James. (He had help.)

I've had a few photos on my website, but tonight I added many more pics and enlarged the existing images.

Worth a revisit:
