Dear Mr. Moroney,

Enclosed is some information about SPACES.

We recently received a phone call from Irene Clurman of the "Rocky Mountain News" regarding Bill Hosack's work, which she said she couldn't describe but felt certain would be of interest to us. She suggested we write to David Brose for more info. We did, and a week later received, on a faulty answering machine, half of a message referring to that letter.

Now our Feb/Mar copy of Muse arrives with--lo and behold--a page 9 story by Mr. Brose on Hosack's works, including your name.

We're very interested in the site, and would appreciate any and all information which you could supply. For archival purposes, we would like to have photographs (or good Xerox copies), and for preservation activities we'd like to know the extent of the crisis.

We're limited in what we can do for the preservation of that site, but we can write letters to all of the people who could effect preservation or documentation. We can also attempt to round up other national support.

We hope we can be of some help to you, and we look forward to learning more about Mr. Hosack's work and the preservation effort.

Sincerely,

Seymour Rosen
Director
