Tressa “Grandma” Prisbrey, 86, created Bottle Village, a folkart landmark consisting of 13 buildings constructed out of thousands of bottles over a 25-year period. A California Historical Landmark and Ventura County Cultural Landmark, Bottle Village has been compared to Simon Rodia’s Watts Towers in terms of folk art significance. The Bottle Village is presently in danger of being destroyed, so we invite you to join us at a “friendraiser” and special screening of this American Film Festival finalist. Grandma (health permitting) and the producers of the film will be present.

Saturday, July 10 at 8 p.m.
Sunday, July 11 at 2 p.m.

At the Craft and Folk Art Museum Annex
712 S. Curson, Los Angeles
For info: Amy Skillman, 934-0126, call Tues. thru Thurs.
